GSU's Marzynski, Filmmaker, Scores With Timely Film

Marian Marzynski visits a nun who sheltered him from the Germans 38 years ago.

"I was born in Warsaw in 1937, two and one-half years before the Germans invaded Poland. War was my kindergarten. My game was survival."

With this as his introduction, Marian Marzynski (CAS) begins the filmed saga of his return to Poland last spring. Marzynski returned to Warsaw after a self-imposed 12 year exile; a journey and a search for his past which will be shared in "Return to Poland," a WGBH Boston public TV special airing Wednesday, November 18, 9 p.m. on WTTW Channel 11, Chicago. The film is a part of seven special documentaries called WORLD, an acclaimed series now in its fifth season.

As a child, Marzynski escaped from the Warsaw ghetto and certain death with the help of Roman Catholic priests and nuns. He was baptised a Christian at the age of 5 and raised in an orphanage where he became a dedicated altar boy. From the window of the orphanage he could see the smoke of the ghetto rising over Warsaw during the uprising. His father died fighting as a partisan. After the war Marzynski's mother, who had given her son up to save him from death by the Nazis, came to see him, but it was hard for the young boy to recognize her because of the changes hardship and starvation had made in her.

In the late 1960s Marzynski was a television personality and journalist in Poland. He left the country as one of 15,000 Polish Jews protesting the anti-semitic campaign mounted by the Communist Party to rescue a bankrupt political regime. "My best years in Poland were in the '60s," he says.

"Educated as a journalist, I worked as a reporter and national radio news anchorman, as a television host and producer. I was part of the liberal political movement during the post-Stalin era. I experienced political censorship and learned ways of fighting back. I also learned a bitter truth: the one party Communist system is not self-reformable."

The GSU professor and independent filmmaker was finally allowed to return home after 12 years. Prior to 1981 he had been denied a Polish visa. His visit to Poland was considered a serious threat to the security of the Polish People's Republic.

What he saw in spring, 1981, while shooting "Return to Poland," was an "... immense awakening of a nation; a country on a turn in its history. It was the political system near its collapse... My film is about the courage of people and their determination to survive"●

Art History Course To Focus on How Artists See the Human Form

How the unclothed human figure has been represented through the centuries by masters such as the early classic artists as well as Rubens, Renoir, Michelangelo and others will be the subject of the Art History Seminar for the Winter Trimester at Governors State University.

Arthur Bourgeois (CAS), will conduct the course which will present the various approaches to the male and female figure as revealed through painting, sculpture and photography. Elements such as pose and gesture, emphasis and de-emphasis of parts of the body, systems of proportion, setting and psychological attitude, as well as media technique and aesthetic considerations of the various time-frames in history will be discussed.

The seminar will meet on Wednesday evenings from January 13, 1982 through April 21 at 7:30 p.m. Persons interested in earning 2 or 3 credit hours toward a degree must sign up during Winter Trimester registration.

For further information, contact Bourgeois at ext. 2309●

Holiday Food for Needy

The Salvation Army is looking for someone to sponsor the 1981 food collection drive at GSU. This food will be distributed to deserving families in time of emergency need. Although emergency food is provided by the organization all twelve months of the year, they depend on the holiday season for major food donations.

Many more families need assistance now than the Salvation Army has ever seen before and they would appreciate help with this project.

Editor, Landscapes: Betty A. Kott
Assistant: Patricia M. Burkhardt

Government may have to get out of the transportation business, Illinois State Senator Donald L. Totten recently told an audience at GSU. Private carriers may be the answer to the current RTA mess, he said. Totten is one of nine Illinois politicians appearing this fall and winter as part of the lecture series on U.S. and Illinois Elections under sponsorship of the GSU Institute for Public Policy and Administration.

GSU/Community Gospel Choir

The music department of GSU is organizing the GSU/Community Gospel Choir. The choir will perform both traditional and contemporary gospel music.

The purpose of the choir is to provide an opportunity for church musicians (instrumentalists and vocalists) to develop a greater appreciation and understanding of the historical foundation, socio/cultural context, harmonic usage in both traditional and contemporary gospel music, and choral conducting/choral methods.

Persons interested in the GSU/Community Gospel Choir are to meet in the Music Recital Hall Wednesday, November 11, at 12:30 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. (two sessions — come to one or the other). For further information, call ext. 2461●

GSU Voice Teacher to Give First Recital Here

Karen Wickstrom Blunk, Park Forest, recently appointed community professor of voice at GSU, will present her first faculty recital on Sunday, November 8, at 4:00 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall. The public is invited; there is no admission charge.

She will sing three songs by Handel, a group of pieces by five French composers, a lieder by Richard Trunk, an aria by Leoncavallo and seven Irish songs by Jeanne Boyd. Her accompanist will be William Browning, her voice coach and chairman of the piano department of IVS School of Music, Oak Park.

Blunk holds the BA degree from Augustana College and the MM from American Conservatory of Music. She is a winner of the South Dakota Metropolitan Opera auditions and the American Conservatory Commencement competition. She is soloist at Temple Anshe Shalom in Olympia Fields and has performed with numerous collegiate and community choruses. She has been a recitalist at the American Conservatory, Chicago Public Library and the Focus on Community Artists Series of Flossmoor Community Church.

Famed Health Care Researcher Here

Dr. Ian Russell, renowned health care researcher, will visit the GSU Health Services Administration program Tuesday, November 10. From 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. he will give a presentation on "British National Health Services and Quality Assurance in Ambulatory Care." The address will focus on the new developments in the British National Health Services, specifically on a proposal to improve the quality of ambulatory care. Interested professionals and the public are invited to attend this presentation in room A1102 at Governors State University. For further information, please contact Dr. Sang-O Rhee at ext. 2137.

Dimiceli Next Coffeehouse Attraction

The SA Coffeehouse is featuring Louise Dimiceli on November 18, a singer/songwriter who has proved an alluring performer whether working alone or appearing on bills with such greats as Odetta and Bob Gibson.

Performing is a recent focus of Dimiceli's career. For some years she has been teaching, composing and arranging, and has been a staff member of the Old Town School of Folk Music. This background has been helpful to her in developing her own musical style.

Dimiceli can go with equal ease from her own sassy blues song "Sleepy," through ragtime and yet render a beautifully tender ballad. As explained by one reviewer, "In a finely shaped piece of wood there is solidity and gentle movement of the intricate grain. In Louise Dimiceli here is the same beauty."

The GSU Student Activities Coffeehouse is presented one Wednesday a month. Admission is free. Performances on November 18 will be at 4:00 and 5:00 p.m. In the Hall of Governors.

Credit Union News

Christmas is less than two months away. Clever GSU employees who joined the Credit Union Christmas Club last year can now reap not only the result of what they saved, but a premium besides. See Lu Poroli in Personnel to pick up those Christmas Club checks.

Christmas Club accounts for next year are being opened from November 1 to the end of the year. You'll like the premiums again this year, too. A deposit of any amount and a payroll deduction of at least $5.00 per week will open your Christmas Club account. Sign up early so you'll have the money you need for Christmas, 1982 ●

From the Cashier

Service fees on any checks returned, regardless of reason (insufficient funds, account closed, stop payment, etc.) will be $10 each occurrence. This ruling has been in effect since 11/1/81 ●
